

Prelicensure Practical Nursing Role Delineation Course

With administrative regulation effective in 2005, RN graduates who fail the NCLEX-RN may apply to take the NCLEX-PN. Prior to taking the examination, these applicants will be required to complete a board-approved practical nursing role delineation course. The course shall include content on the roles and responsibilities of an LPN and direct supervised clinical instruction. 201KAR 20:070

The course can be taken only at an approved LPN program of nursing. The program of nursing shall seek approval of the course from the board.

Below are details of the first approved Kentucky approved LPN Role Delineation Course with contact information.
